Conflict Minerals

Dear Customer,

You may have written to us concerning conflict minerals. Through these regulations, a communication route along the supply chain has been set in motion. You can easily picture that for an extremely lean and cost efficient company like ourselves with well over one thousand active customers, activities in various niche applications, numerous markets all combined with over twenty different countries, individual communication in the requested form is impractical.

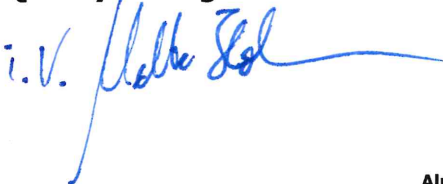

Therefore, we have decided to focus our resources in providing our customers with the necessary information in the below confirmation.

Consequently, we will:

- Not answer individual Letters, Faxes or e-mails.
- Not complete Customer Forms.
- Request you not to phone in relation to these questions.

In return we offer you an Information Portal on which we provide actual company specific information: Regarding your inquiry about the obligations concerning the American bill H.R. 4173 "Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act" Section 1502 on "Conflict Minerals" we can inform you, that due to the nature of our product – aluminium tubes, bars or profiles - we do not directly fall under the scope of application of the law. The relevant minerals are not alloying elements in our products but naturally occurring trace elements. We also remelt only our own aluminum production returns or selected aluminum scrap from the European market from approved suppliers. Therefore, we for the time being can assume that according to information available to us the raw material used in our products does not contain any of the defined "conflict minerals" namely coltan, niobium, tantalum, tin, gold or tungsten from the Democratic Republic of Congo or its adjoining countries. Changes to our knowledge regarding this issue will surely be advised to you immediately via our portal www.alunnatubes.com.

Kind regards
